

Dear Class Parent Reps

Thank you for your attendance last week at the meetings. The timing couldn't be better as we now move into Home-based learning. A quick summary for this week follows and it will not be my only email today but I just want to keep you all informed and please pass on to the class community at your earliest convenience.

- Just finished the first long session of exploring and practicing with Google Hangouts and Google Classroom
- Training to continue with IT staff and High School teachers at 1.30pm today
- Please check your own "learning spaces" at home in regards to equipment and stationery (paper, pencils, colouring pencils, rulers etc.), distractions outside and inside, do you have a printer?
- Home-based learning this week to commence on Wednesday and the term finishes on Friday as usual. No work in the holidays.
- Term 4 commences from home using Home-based Learning on Monday, 6 April 2020

Where and when necessary, I will contact the class parents from each class if a feel there is a need. The way that Home-based learning looks can vary depending on the age and stage of the children. Please remind your children that for the purpose of Home-based learning, Google Hangout is not a social chatroom. The chats are about their work not about what they did on the weekend or what they are having for dinner.

Watch this space for more to come
